As part of their drive to bring a new promotion to their customers each month, Discount Fire Supplies are offering all of their online fire safety training videos, encompassing Basic Fire Safety Training, Fire Marshal Training and Fire Extinguisher Training, at just half price for June and July 2013.

In recent months discountfiresupplies.co.uk, retailers of Fire Alarm Systems and Fire Safety products, have been offering their customers a different promotional offer each month on selected products. For their latest promotion Discount Fire Supplies have decided to offer a fifty percent discount on their entire range of online fire safety training. This offer will run concurrently for two months, expiring at the end of July 2013.

Discount Fire Supplies have three different online fire training courses available:

- Fire marshal training: Now £15 (+VAT)
- Basic fire safety training: Now £10 (+VAT)
- Fire extinguisher training: Now £10 (+VAT)

All of the training videos are simple to follow, comply to fire safety law and are also approved by the Institute of Fire Engineers.

The fire safety training consists of a series of online videos providing all the information needed to pass a simple set of multiple choice questions. The candidate can review the videos as many times as they feel necessary before taking the online test and, once the training is complete, will receive a certificate proving that they are sufficiently trained therefore making their employer compliant with fire safety law.

The fifty percent discount has already been applied to the online fire safety videos so customers can simply add them to their basket and proceed to the checkout. The online fire safety training will be available at the discounted rate until 31st July 2013 and will return to full price on 1st August 2013.

Tariq from Discount Fire Supplies says, "As always, we're happy to be able to offer our products at an affordable rate.
